A Series of Prints, &c.

THIS Plan is calculated to convey the Outlines of UNIVERSAL HISTORY, in Imitation of Madame GENLIS' Method. It may be necessary to inform those who have not read that Lady's Writings, that in one of her Works, entitled, "Adele and Theodore; or, Betters on Education," an Account is given of a Nobleman and his Lady, who retired from public Life for a certain Number of Years, in order to be at Leisure to devote their Time to the Education of their Children. The Castle chosen for their Residence was so judiciously prepared for the Purpose, that the Pictures, Hangings, and the Stucco on the Walls, were made Vehicles of Instruction; and the very Doors and Screens conveyed some useful Lesson; so
 " That they acquired knowledge, as it were, by Chance; and the
 " Lectures given them on History, not being confined to Time or
 " Place, took Effect without their being sensible of it."

" The Hangings of the Saloon contained Pictures of the Roman
 " History. On one Side were Medallions of the seven Kings of " Rome;---those great Men who made the Republic the most illustrious; --- and every Emperor as low down as Constantine. The " opposite Side of the Room contained Pictures of the most celebrated Roman Ladies. In a long Gallery were Paintings representing the Grecian History after the same Manner. One Room was “ hung with Pictures representing Parts of Scripture History; the “ young Lady’s Bed-Chamber was ornamented with coloured Prints,

 “ relating to the History of France, &c.”

As this excellent Scheme will not (for obvious Reasons) admit of general Imitation, it is hoped that the Substitute now offered to the Public, will prove acceptable to those who are engaged in the Instruction of young Children.

Each Set of Prints will be accompanied by a small Volume, printed in a large clear Type, containing an Explanation of the Plates in easy Language, adapted to the Capacities of those for whose Amusement the Prints are designed.

The Book of Explanation to this Set, under the Title of “A Description of a SET of PRINTS of SCRIPTURE HISTORY contained in a Set of easy Lessons,” is sold for 6d. sewed in Marble Paper, or 10d. Bound in Red Leather.
